As per State Law of the State of California:
Any security shall be held by the landlord for the tenant who is party to the lease or agreement. The claim of a tenant to the security shall be prior to the claim of any creditor for the landlord. (Civil Code Section 1950.59(d)).

According to Civil Code Section 1950.2(b), the security deposit may be used by the owner for any purpose, including, but not limited to, any of the following:

- 1) The compensation of a landlord for a tenant's default in the payment of rent.
- 2) The repair and damages to the premises, exclusive of ordinary wear and tear, caused by the tenant or guest or licensee of the tenant.
- 3) The cleaning of the premises upon termination of the tenancy necessary to return the unit to the same level of cleanliness it was in the inception of the tenancy. The amendments to this paragraph enacted by the act adding this sentence shall apply only to tenancies for which the tenant's right to occupy begins after January 1, 2003. (Amendment underlined)
- 4) To remedy future defaults by the tenant in any obligation under this rental agreement to restore, replace or return personal property or appurtenances, exclusive of ordinary wear and tear, if the security deposit is authorized to be applied thereto by the rental agreement.

The law allows the Owner/Agent to use the security deposit for legal deductions itemized in this statement that are not corrected by the Resident prior to the termination of the tenancy or that were not identified due to the presence of the Resident's possessions during the time of the pre-move out inspection. It allows Owner/Agent to use the security deposit to correct any damages that occur to the apartment/property between the time of the pre-move out inspection and the termination of the tenancy.
